

Two Ordnance Officers Visit Joliet Arsenal

Col. Otto Jank, chief of the ammunition division of the chief of ordnance, Washington, D. C., was in Joliet today for a routine inspection at the Joliet Arsenal and for consultations with Col. R. R. Klanderman, field director of ammunition plants.

Yesterday, Brig. Gen. J. L. Holman, chief of the industrial service office of the ordnance department, visited Col. Klanderman and made a tour of the Joliet arsenal, inspecting both KOW and EOP units.

It is believed that the officers will report to the chief of ordnance in Washington on the need for continuing the standby condition at both plants and on activities in connection with the new ammonium nitrate manufacturing program in a section of the KOW reservation.
